Business Proposal

The Real Story

My name is Sequoia Conner. I'm a single mother, and for years I worked 12-hour days as a care coordinator, helping families find caregivers and navigating the DSHS system. I was good at it. I loved the work. But I was doing it for someone else.

Then one day it hit me: I could build this myself. I could create a staffing company that actually works—one that pays caregivers fairly, treats them with respect, and doesn't compromise on quality. One that gives families peace of mind. And one that puts money back into communities that need it.

That's ForeverGreen.

The Problem We're Solving

Families are desperate.

They're calling Adult Family Homes, private agencies, and case managers asking the same question: "Do you have someone reliable?" And too often, the answer is no. Caregivers are burned out. They don't show up. They leave vulnerable adults without the support they need. Families are stressed. Seniors and adults with disabilities aren't getting the care they deserve.

Adult Family Homes are struggling.

They need CNAs. They need them now. But finding reliable, vetted caregivers is nearly impossible. When they do find someone, that person burns out or leaves. The facility is left scrambling.

Caregivers are trapped.

They want to do meaningful work. They want stable paychecks. They want to be treated with respect. But too many staffing agencies treat them like interchangeable parts. Low pay. No support. No community.

Washington has a crisis.

The state is facing a severe caregiver shortage. DSHS is desperate for agencies that can deliver reliable, trained caregivers. The demand is real. The need is urgent.

ForeverGreen solves all of this.

How We're Different

We don't just fill shifts. We build relationships.

We hire for character, not just credentials.

We screen for emotional maturity, commitment, and cultural competence. We want people who show up. We want people who care. That's what reduces turnover and ensures families get consistent, compassionate care.

We pay fairly and treat people like humans.

$20/hour to caregivers. Predictable schedules. Direct communication. We know your name. We care about your wellbeing. We're not a faceless corporation.

We reinvest in communities.

Every contract we win puts money back into programs supporting single mothers locally and children in Ghana. Your work creates impact beyond the paycheck.

We're built lean and relationship-driven.

We're not a huge corporation with layers of bureaucracy. We respond fast. We solve problems. We know our clients. We know our caregivers. We know our partners. That builds trust.

The Business Model

Here's how it works:

Revenue: We bill $30/hour for in-home care services to DSHS, Adult Family Homes, and private-pay families.

Costs: We pay caregivers $20/hour.

Margin: $10/hour before overhead. That's 33% margins—healthy enough to stay sustainable and pay people well.

Predictability: Each client averages 30 hours of care per month. That's recurring, predictable revenue.

Scalability: As we add more clients, revenue scales without requiring heavy infrastructure or massive capital investment. We're lean by design.

Diversification: We contract with DSHS (Medicaid-funded clients), Adult Family Homes, and private-pay families. Multiple revenue streams mean stability.

Why This Works

The market is massive.

The home care industry is worth $4.5 billion. Washington's long-term care system is growing. DSHS needs agencies that can deliver. The demand is real.

The model is proven.

CNA staffing is not a new idea. It's a proven business model with a strong track record. Good margins. Low overhead. Recurring revenue. It works.

We have founder-market fit.

I've been inside this system. I know the pain points. I know what families need. I know what caregivers need. I know how DSHS works. That's not something you can learn in a classroom.

The timing is right.

Washington is facing a caregiver crisis. Families are desperate. Adult Family Homes are desperate. DSHS is desperate. We're launching at the exact moment the market needs us.

What We've Already Done

We're not just an idea. We've put in the work.

✓ Completed state-required Home Care Agency Administrator training — the key credential for licensing and DSHS contracting

✓ Talked to real families — validated the demand through direct conversations with people struggling to find reliable caregivers

✓ Built a 5-year financial model — revenue projections, costs, cash flow, break-even analysis. It's real and credible.

✓ Researched the market — deep dive into Washington's long-term care system, caregiver shortages, and DSHS Medicaid demand

✓ Developed a complete business plan — operations, staffing, compliance, hiring standards, everything

✓ Created a go-to-market strategy — DSHS contracting, Adult Family Home partnerships, community outreach

✓ Designed the brand — logos, messaging, website, digital presence

✓ Established the mission — dual impact: supporting single mothers locally and children in Ghana

✓ Built a realistic plan — serve 30 clients in 3-5 years while maintaining healthy margins and supporting caregivers
